University of Huddersfield Repository

Lewis, Kiara and Horner, Louisa

Social impact of sport

Original Citation

This version is available at http://eprints.hud.ac.uk/10972/

The University Repository is a digital collection of the research output of the University, available on Open Access. Copyright and Moral Rights for the items on this site are retained by the individual author and/or other copyright owners. Users may access full items free of charge; copies of full text items generally can be reproduced, displayed or performed and given to third parties in any format or medium for personal research or study, educational or not-for-profit purposes without prior permission or charge, provided:

- The authors, title and full bibliographic details is credited in any copy;
- A hyperlink and/or URL is included for the original metadata page; and
- The content is not changed in any way.

For more information, including our policy and submission procedure, please contact the Repository Team at: E.mailbox@hud.ac.uk.

http://eprints.hud.ac.uk/
Social Impact of Sport

Kiara Lewis and Louisa Horner
Aims of the session

- Empower practitioners to maximise the social impact of sport provided (from research on projects evaluated)
  - Does what I do now have a social impact?
  - How could I increase the social impact?
  - How will I know if I have been successful?
  - Steps to take forward
“Art and sport can not only make a valuable contribution to delivering key outcomes of lower unemployment, less crime, better health and better qualifications, but can also help to develop the individual pride, community spirit and capacity for responsibility that enable communities to run regeneration projects themselves”

- DCMS 1999 p.2
Evidence base

- Limited (‘accepted truth’)
- Multidimensional social problems – miracle cure
- Sport – institution characterised by unequal access, competitiveness and commercialisation (Gatz et al 2002)
- ‘No purpose, fear failure, destructive relationships’ (Sanford 2006 p.258) (many experience at school PE – sport avoided)
Social Impact

- New Labour Government – key social policy is tackling social exclusion – disaffection
- Young people: Rise in truancy, increase in exclusions, low levels of educational attainment (DfEE 2003)
- Investment - £459m PESSCL, Sports Colleges (due to confidence in sport to promote social inclusion in YP)
Potential benefits

- Sport itself not enough (One element - Key skills developed can be transferred)
- Optimum conditions required

- Sport some social impact, in some people under some circumstances (Sandford et al 2006)
- 6 key points to be considered (later – Louisa to explain what is meant by se and how has been tackled successfully)
Louisa’s bit
Maximising the potential benefits

- Key points to consider in design of sport/physical activity interventions:
Social interactions

How do you promote social interactions between participants?

- Development level – what are the aims?
- Sports leaders – as role models? (What characteristics do you look for beyond coaching qualifications in interviews/job descriptions)
Sense of community

Do individuals feel they belong
- Are individuals involved in decision making
- Respect from leaders
- Small groups – long time
- Peer mentoring
- Safe environment
Multi-agency approach

Wider social context

- Partnerships between key groups (who are your key partners; parents, schools, social services, transport, environmental agency, leisure services etc.)
- Shared accountability
Sustainable projects

Means of developing skills

- Teach skills explicitly (communication, teamwork, decision making, responsibility etc.) (won’t just happen cos playing sport)
- Take time to develop
Monitor and evaluate

Build in to future projects systematic, structured evaluation

- Secures funding (bid should include money for funding)
- Framework (– as provided by Louisa)
Evaluate what you do now

What are the aims of the project (success – social impact?) (are they compatible?/whose agenda?)

- What do you do to reach these aims?
- How do you know if they have been met?
- Handouts to fill in
Thank you