Research challenges with young people
Modifying the Pictor technique for effective interviewing with young people

- Define the topic to ensure an autonomous Pictor creation
- Include re-engagement tasks for those who struggle to focus or reflect
- Be shrewd with the timing of the creation of the participant arrow to reduce arrow order effects which may impact Pictor analysis
Insert Adams Pictor and discuss
The advantages of using Pictor with young people

- Aids rapport building
- Promotes reflexivity and accountability
- Clarifies understanding of social networks
- Facilitates exploration of more difficult, abstract meaning
- Increases participant autonomy/control
