Dedicated Web Pages for Researchers

Finding and Managing Information As a University of Huddersfield researcher you can find books and other items using the Library Catalogue and access online information via Summon. You can also use referencing software to manage your references.	The University of Huddersfield Repository The Repository is an open access central archive of the university's research. Researchers are encouraged to deposit the full text 'accepted version' of their work on Open Access where possible. Evidence suggests citations of research available on Open Access are increased by up to 5 times.
What can I access when I'm not on Campus? The University provides storage space for all staff (K, L and M drives) and Students (K drive) whenever they log into any University owned PC. This facility has now been extended to allow access to these areas off campus using the Mobile Home and Mobile Desktop services.	Archives and Special Collections The University has a dedicated Archives and Special Collections service.
Copyright, IPR and Patents Find out what you can and can't do, with regard to printing, photocopying and scanning for teaching and publishing.	Using Other Libraries There are several schemes that enable you to use the resources of other libraries.
Keeping up to date Keeping up to date with the latest news and developments in your chosen research area has never been easier.	Getting Published International Standard Book Number (ISBN) is a unique number used to identify a specific publication and edition. ISBNs for University publications are issued by the library.

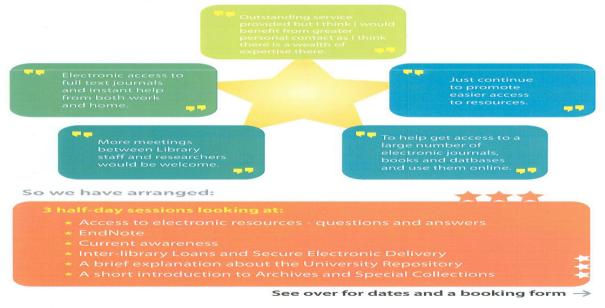

Training Sessions

Computing and Library Services Support for Researchers

In 2007 we asked you how the Library could support you in your research and you said:

Training sessions: feedback

Reference Management: EndNote

Reference Management: training feedback

A longer session Hands on exercise is a very would be useful useful part of the session Good to hear about other tools like Zotero Two sessions would be better so we can practice more Trainers adapted their material to suit the requests of the group A really useful which was useful tool, will save bags of time, thanks

Reference Management: alternatives
