retains the heat, and is lighter than any other griddle made. All others are too heavy for convenience, absorb grease, are hard to clean and break easily, besides wasting fuel and time in waiting for a sufficiently hot fire. The illustration above shows the Sun Pancake Griddle with its 3 hinged pans. The latter is first poured into the little round hinged pans. When done on the first side the round pans are turned over with a fork into the long pan, and while the cakes are finishing, the round pans are refilled and so on, thus baking at the actual rate of six cakes a minute. The cakes are served perfectly round, with smooth edges, are light and spongy and will tempt the most fastidious appetite. It is an absolute necessity in every household. Price, each, $5.75; per doz., $3.75.

Egg Poacher.

No. 16106. Egg Poacher; is designed to be placed within a spider or cooking vessel containing boiling water about one-half inch deep. Its merit is very evident. Each egg is of uniform size, perfectly cooked. A round of white dotted with a firm golden center. Eggs are quickly and easily removed, etc. Adapted for use for baking biscuit, gems, patty cakes, etc. Made of IX charcoal tin, without solder. Every joint and seam smooth and perfect. Price, each, 25c.

Broilers.

No. 16108. The illustration shows the two sections of the Broiler and the cover, the corrugated cross pieces being V-shaped into which the gravy drips during the broiling. It is thus self-basting and instead of the gravy falling into the fire, creating a suffocating smoke and disagreeable odor, it runs into the corrugations, is broiled into the meat, making an otherwise dry, tough steak tender and juicy. The cover fits over the top, confining the appetizing flavor to the meat and prevents the escape of smoke into the room.

For toasting the Morgan Broiler is perfection. It makes no difference what kind of stove you use, gasoline, wood, coal, gas or oil, the Morgan Broiler is adapted to them all. Will not crack, warp or break; is easily cleaned, fits any stove; does not affect the draught nor deaden the fire. Price, each, 40c.
